SECTION B

51. Read this passage and use it to answer the questions that follow in full sentences.

That night the moon was shining brightly. Bitama went to bed earlier than usual. He had a plan on his mind. He wanted to harvest honey from a bee hive next to his granary. Bitama did not share his plan with his wife. He bought a jacket and wellingtons. These would prevent bees from stinging him. But Bitama forgot to buy a veil.

When Bitama heard his wife snoring. He woke up at once. He then put on the special attire silently. Bitama then tiptoed and walked out of the house. Indeed, his wife did not notice him. Within a few minutes, Bitama was at the acacia tree. This is where the beehive was. Without any fear, Bitama climbed the tree. He then smoked the beehive to suffocate the bees. Unfortunately, some bees rushed out of the hive. They stung Bitama's face.

Due to too much pain, Bitama fell off the acacia tree. It was at this time when he realized his mistake. "I wish I had bought a veil as well", he painfully said. When Bitama reached him, he knocked at the door. And his wife quickly woke up to open for him. But she was surprised to see Bitama looking like a ghost. Bitama was crying painfully. "My husband, what has happened to you?" She sympathetically asked. "I had gone to harvest some honey, honey, but bees have taught me a lesson! I am sorry I didn't tell you!" Bitama replied. Being a caring woman, Bitama's wife gave him first aid. Since then, Bitama swore never to disturb bees until his death.

54. Read this poem carefully and use it to answer the questions that follow in full sentences.

On earth each of us has a hero
The hero that counts in their life
But one's mother is the greatest hero
From childhood to adulthood she cares
And demands no pay for her great work

On earth each of us has a hero
But a mother is the greatest hero
She is like God here on earth
Sleep she foregoes to take care of her baby
The baby she cuddles to give warmth and comfort

On earth each of us has a hero
But one's mother is one's number one hero
For nine full months she affectionately cares
Feeds and protects the baby in her womb
Until she painfully gives birth in the hands of midwives

On earth each of us has a hero
But a mother is the greatest hero on earth
Maximum respect she deserves to be happy
For the world would be empty without mothers
Mother, the hero of all times!

Mount Primary School,
P. O. Box 48,
Pakwach

18th October 2023

Dear Prefects,

We thank God for our new offices as prefects in this school. Congratulations, my dear friends. But remember to always pray to God for wisdom and guidance. Our fellow pupils have elected us but no leadership is successful without God's blessings.

As we begin our term of six months in our respective offices, remember to treat all pupils fairly. Don't torture those who did not vote for you. Next, I wish to advise you to work together with our teachers to promote good morals among pupils. In case you learn of immoral acts such as homo sexuality, theft, coupling, bullying and bad touches, report to the head teacher straight away.

For a long time, our teachers have given us corporal punishments. This needs our joint effort to speak to them. As you may be aware, some children had to drop out of school for fear of daily canes and insults. However, we should also talk to have good behavior in order to enjoy their rights. Besides that, we have to teach them to fulfil their responsibilities if we are interested in having our rights fully.

Lastly, as new prefects, we ought to conserve our school environment and keep it clean always. Therefore, we must ensure proper disposal of rubbish in classrooms, plant flowers and fruit trees in our school. I wish you a successful term of service as prefects.

For God and my country, Uganda.

Yours sincerely,

Rhoda.

53. Read this poem and use it to answer the questions that follow in full sentences.

At Christmas, all roads lead to markets
The young, the old, the short and the tall
All rush to select the best garments
To wear and shine on Christmas Day
As they celebrate the King's birthday.

Look! Women and girl's queue up at salons
Ready to have their hair plaited and treated
For a new look they endeavor to wear
And appear beautiful before their husbands
As they serve them lunch at dining tables

At Christmas, even the poor buy meat
The meat from different types of animals
Beef from cows and veal from calves
Strictly slaughtered by a qualified male moslem
To be considered clean enough for eating.

When Christmas comes, we, girls learn skills
The skills that our mother teach us
As my fellow girls and I help in the kitchen
To fry food of different types
For a better taste of the Christmas dish
What a special day Christmas is!

SECTION B

51. Read this dialogue and use it to answer the questions that follow in full sentences. It was between Taban Rombo and Agatha Suyoyo, who are pupils at Sebo P7 Primary School.

- Taban: My classmate Agatha, let's discuss our safety along Barinyanga Road, which we both use daily.
- Agatha: Your suggestion is welcome, Taban. What do you have to say about it?
- Taban: I have a lot of concerns. But only for this morning, my interest in safety on the road.
- Agatha: Oh yes! We need to find a way of reducing the accidents involving school children along the road to our school.
- Taban: You're very right. I am concerned about the carelessness of the motorists as they drive past us every morning.
- Agatha: True! My heart is not at rest! Even the cyclists disobey the highway code. They ride on the pavements instead.
- Taban: Oh my God! That is why Amu Supana, our class monitor in primary seven, was hit by a speeding motorcycle recently.
- Agatha: It was too bad for our class leader to have such a nasty accident. I think we should phone the district traffic officer and report our fears to her.
- Taban: Wow! That is a good suggestion! But I suggest that our parents buy helmets to shield our heads in case of an accident on our way to school.
- Agatha: Are you really serious, Taban? I thought helmets are worn only by those who board motorcycles to school.
- Taban: It is true, but when you fall down and hit your head on tarmac, it will be safe with your helmet on even as you walk.
- Agatha: Oh yeah! We truly need to push for helmets. I wish the government of Uganda could provide free helmets to all school children who don't sleep at school.
- Taban: It is my prayer too, for our safety matters, as the future generation. We needn't lose any other school child in a road accident.
- Agatha: I believe God will answer our prayers! However, I advise fellow pupils to respect road signs. Then safety will be ours.
- Taban: Besides that, I advise boys to stop playing football on their way to school as this endangers their lives.
- Agatha: What a brilliant piece of advice! Thank you for bringing this topic for discussion. We can share the same with our classmates when we reach school. Goodbye.

53. Read this poem and use it to answer the questions that follow in full sentences.

Where will I get food to feed my little children?
The children from my own womb
That I have to feed on balanced diet.
And help grow strong and healthy
But now my hands are tied
For I don't have money to buy for them.

Sorry, my little sons and daughters
I can't put food on the table as before
Your father sold all the family land before his death
And now I can't grow food crops for our family
But instead need money to purchase food
From markets and neighbours every day

My little children, learn to recite the Lord's prayer
Ask God for food, fees and protection
I don't want you to feel sad and bad
I thank God you are not thin
But you instead look healthy and wealthy
Though you come from a poor family
