GOING ON HOLIDAYS

Going on holidays is an exciting time at our school. Our headmaster, Rev. Fr. Kiwiri James hires buses to transport us to the nearest town to our homes. The night before, many students don't sleep as they are busy packing their belongings and at around 5.00 a.m., students start taking their luggage to the allocated bus. The turn boy puts all the heavy bags in the boot while the light bags are put on the racks inside the bus.

Normally there is a teacher in each bus to ensure that the driver does not over speed and students do not misbehave on the way. My friend Rebecca and I always sit on the behind seat. We enjoy looking at trees and animals that seem to be going in the opposite direction.

The buses normally travel in a convoy up to their last destinations. Parents always wait for their children at the parking venues. When the parent gets his or her child, he or she has to sign to show that he or she has received his or her child.

From here, many parents drive away with their children. Others hire cars, motorcycles or bicycles to take their children home. Those going within the town prefer walking to travelling by car because there is always heavy traffic jam whenever students get their holidays.

My friend Rebecca Nabirye from Kalangala District in Ssese Islands uses a motor boat to reach her home because the whole place is surrounded by water. Students from foreign countries are taken to the airport by the teachers to catch their planes.

This holiday I am sure that I am going to have great fun because my father has bought me a new bicycle. I am going to learn how to ride it. Secondly, uncle Mike who works with Egyptian Airlines has sent us air tickets to go and visit him in Egypt. I think it is more exciting to travel by air than by road. Well, I am yet to discover that!

A STRANGER

I am a stranger in this place.
How do I get to Owino Market?
How do I get to the new taxi park?
How do I get to Nakasero Market?
Oh! I am confused. Stranded at Clocktower Kampala.

I am a stranger in this place.
I want to go to Owino Market.
Should I ask the vendor to direct me?
Should I ask the conductor to direct me?
Should I ask the bodaboda man to direct me?
Oh! I have got an idea; the officer will do that.

Thank you, officer.
To go to Nakasero Market I should turn left.
To reach the new taxi park I should walk straight and cross the road.
To go to Owino Market I should turn right.
The market is across Nakivubo channel.
