54. Study the poem below very carefully and then, in full sentences, answer the questions that follow.

Oh holiday! Lovely 'n useful holiday!
Some call you vacation, others a break
Who made you, dear holiday?
You're as beautiful as day break.

Who needs you not, lovely holiday?
Who feels not your touch oh holiday?
Good news you are to all the living,
Even the Lord had you after creating.

Teachers await your arrival
Like a groom awaiting her bride,
To relax from their daily torture,
Standing all day, shouting 'n marking books.

Learners long for you, lovely holiday
Sleeping a little more they're sure,
Homework, classwork, sit down, shut up..... are no more!
To the term's fatigue and torment you're the cure.

Our parents crave for you as well,
Great relief you bring them they tell
Relief from rising each day before dawn
And relief from the tiresome house chores.

SECTION B: 50 MARKS

Questions 51 to 55 carry 10 marks each

51. Read the passage below and in full sentences answer the questions that follow.

One night I woke up suddenly from my deep sleep. There was a strange smell in the air. It was the smell of smoke. I looked out of my window and saw a thick black cloud of smoke coming from the direction of the coop (chicken house).

A lot of chickens were flying about frantically. Some of them were violently flapping their wings. The poor chickens were trying to escape the fire through the wire netting. The fire was on the left side of the chicken house. My father hacked the door of the house with an axe to let the chickens out. We then sprayed water on the house and extinguished the fire. Luckily, only a few chickens were burnt, while the rest were scorched here and there. The good news was that we had chicken for our meals the next few days.

The first term holiday had ended the day before. On Friday morning, Apio was very happy because he was to travel to the village from where he would rest for a month. He was also happy to see that he was the best in the end of term examination. Apio had the been one of the ten boys Mr. Kaoko, the P.7 classteacher had punished for leaving class without permission.

That morning, Apio travelled by the earliest bus. He reached Abalo village after a two hour journey.

In the first week of the holiday, Apio stayed home helping his father to feed the animals on the farm. Every morning, he would fetch water for the animals and take them to the field for grazing.

In the second week, Apio requested to go and see his grandmother, Jaja Aziyo. She was excited to see her grandson after almost a whole year. Apio helped her weed the cassava garden. He was given a hen in appreciation for the work he did.

When the third week started, he returned home to help his parents and prepare for the new term. He would clean the compound, wash dishes and fetch water. His mother was very happy with her industrious boy. By the start of the term, Mr Lapoya had already banked Apio's school fees and bought all the requirements ready to begin the second term.

Examinations, Examinations,
Just a mere mention of your name,
Makes me tremble and quake all day,
And I start running up and down,
Because I am not ready for you,
I am ever playing and watching TV.

Examinations, Examinations,
By whom were you created?
Why do you put us on tension?

Kampala Mathematics Club

Because we have to prepare for you,
To escape punishment of our tough parents,
If we don't perform well.

Examinations, Examinations,
You are not fair and considerate,
You determine our destiny in a short time,
Imagine sitting P.L.E in two days!
To determine our future forever,
And a final ruling is made.

50. Read the passage below carefully and in full sentences answer the questions about it.

At Friendly Price Shopping centre, there works a tailor called Ssengendo Rahim. He is such a skilled tailor that he designs and sews men's and ladies' clothes in all fashions.

Sometimes, he sews wedding and graduation gowns with attractive designs. All his garments are purchased at affordable prices despite their nice looking. His eldest daughter Sharitah is a designer. She knits school sweaters and weaves nice table clothes as well as carpets. She has a big stall in the African Heritage village in Kampala city.

Sharitah also curves beautiful sculptures. Her sculptures are mostly bought by foreigners from USA , Sweden , China and France because they are decorated with attractive designs.

Rahim and his daughter earn a lot of money daily from their local and foreign customers. This has enabled them to expand their business and train their siblings as well. In addition, Rahim and Sharitah usually exhibit their products at the Uganda Manufacturers Association ground at Lugogo. This has not only helped them advertise their products but also widen their market.

51. Read the poem below and answer the questions that follow.

Last week I visited a restaurant,
Deep in my home village,
It looked more of a kitchen,
With hot soup steaming there,
Garbage in one corner,
And flies everywhere.

Then a rat jumped from a pot,
And the waitress came around,
With a can in one hand,
A sharp long knife in the other,
She looked more of a farmer,
Than the person she thought she was!

I lost appetite there and then,
I tried to think of my way out,
I asked her to get me a banana,
And when she went for one,
I moved out never to return,
To this lousy place called a restaurant.

Questions.

SECTION B

51. Read the passage below and then answer, in full sentences, the questions that follow.

One day an old man decided to go and visit his daughter who lived in Kampala city. The old man locked up his house well since he was living alone. His wife had been buried ten years earlier and made up his mind to stay single. He had also managed to educate all his children. His grandchildren visited him every holiday.

When he reached Kampala, he was approached by a young man who volunteered to carry his luggage to any destination. The old man accepted the offer and handed over the bag together with the cock which he had carried along, to the young man.

Kampala Mathematics Club

The young man decided to move faster than the old man and finally disappeared with the luggage. A senior Policeman however, was watching what was taking place and he followed the cunning boy without delay. The young man was arrested and taken to police and the old man got back his luggage.

When he rang his daughter to direct him to their home, the daughter instead came for him from town. The old man was however made very happy when it turned out that the senior policeman was his son-in-law.
